Objectives

120,000 people in the UK have Parkinson's. It is a progressive and fluctuating neurological condition, which can be difficult to manage. Mental health issues have a significant impact on the lives of people with Parkinson's. Health and social care professionals are key to ensuring that these issues are addressed and that patients have the best quality of life.

Parkinson's 2009 is an interactive event looking at how current models of practice can assist you in developing and evaluating your Parkinson's service

It is anticipated that participants will:

- gain ideas on how to develop a service be it in a Community Hospital or an acute Trust
- be given tools to help them evaluate their service be it in a hospital or a care home
- hear from service users about their experiences of a good service

Who should attend?

Parkinson's 2009 – is aimed at all health and social care professionals and commissioners involved in developing and delivering services for people with Parkinson's.

workshop team: developing services for patients

Tuesday 25th August 2009 PM

14.00 – 14.40 Open debate

The All Party Parliamentary Group for Parkinson's disease (APPG) has published a report in July 2009 into access to health and social care services for people affected by Parkinson's disease. The report – Please mind the gap: Parkinson's disease services today – reveals major inequalities in access to information and services for people with Parkinson's and their families.
